CPD Overview

Our independent family business has been crafting statement plasterwork and decorative plaster products for over 30 years

High-quality plaster mouldings for;

Quality isn't just a word to us: it's a mantra we live by. Whether in plasterwork materials or processes, traditional crafting skills or cutting-edge technology, we constantly strive to make each job we work on the greatest we've ever done. From our bespoke plaster design service to our expert installing team, we are united in our commitment to attention to detail, making every decorative plaster product and finish the standard that others follow.

When people work together, there is no saying what they can achieve. Our in-house team of plaster experts include designers, artisans and sculptors, specialist project managers, techies and plasterwork installers, whose knowledge of outstanding-quality decorative plaster products is a constant inspiration. And even more importantly, they ensure our plaster artistry is passed on through our apprentice scheme, so the next generation can bring equally outstanding plasterwork into the world.

What is a stone moulding?

A stone moulding, also known as a stone-effect moulding or Jesmonite, is a compound of finely ground real stone backed by an acrylic resin that perfectly replicates solid stone in any colour, texture or effect. Basically, it feels like stone and looks like stone, and is durable enough to use inside or out. But because it is hollow and lightweight, it is far easier to handle and treat – and has much lower material and labour costs.
